Occupational Therapy, M.S.

The mission of the occupational therapy program is to provide competent health care providers who possess basic skills as health care providers, consultants, educators, managers, researchers, and advocates for the profession and the consumer. In addition, the program seeks to improve patient access and quality care for rural and underserved populations through interprofessional education.

Department Requirements

- Indiana State University is a participant in OTCAS (Occupational Therapy Centralized Application Service). To apply to our program, applicants must complete the OTCAS application. The program cycle runs opens in mid-July and is rolling admissions until mid-April. Applications must be verified in order to be considered. (Please note that the verification process can take 3 –4 weeks to be verified from the time the application is submitted.)
- Admission to the ISU OT program is competitive. Each year the program receives approximately 200 verified applications. The number of applicants interviewed each year varies and up to 30 students are admitted to begin classes in late May each year.
- Interviews are conducted throughout the year with decisions made shortly following the completion of interviews. The interview day consists of a 15 minute interview with members of the OT Program and alumni, and optional tours of the ISU campus and other facilities that will be used by OT students.
- Each application is evaluated on its own merits. ISU is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse and well-rounded group of students who represent all facets of society. Applicants are reviewed holistically based on their experience, academic background, potential, leadership ability, and other qualities appropriate for success as a good fit for our OT Graduate program.
