

Assistant or Associate Professor – Clinical Psychology

The Department of Psychology at Indiana State University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of assistant or associate professor to begin Fall 2026. The position will primarily support our APA accredited clinical psychology doctoral (Psy.D.) program and will also include some undergraduate teaching. The position is open to clinical or counseling psychologists who are eligible for licensure and endorsement as a Health Service Provider in Psychology (HSPP) in Indiana. We welcome applications from individuals in all areas of clinical and counseling psychology, but candidates with interest and experience in clinical training/supervision, assessment, health psychology, or child/adolescent psychopathology are especially encouraged to apply. Individuals who may have had non-traditional career paths, who have taken career breaks, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside of academia are also encouraged to apply. Applicants may apply ABD, but must anticipate their earned doctorate from an accredited institution prior to the position start date.

The typical teaching load is 3 classes/semester. Specific responsibilities will include teaching graduate and undergraduate courses, supervision of empirical Psy.D. dissertations, overseeing therapeutic and assessment services provided by Psy.D. students working in the ISU Psychology clinic, and contributing to service activities in the department and university.

More information about the department and its programs can be found at www.indianastate.edu/academics/colleges/arts-sciences/psychology.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.indstate.edu/postings/53878> and submit a cover letter that includes information on teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, and list of references (to be contacted if invited to interview). Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2025 and will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to the chairperson of the search committee, Dr. Liz O’Laughlin at Liz.O’laughlin@indstate.edu.

Indiana State University is a comprehensive university with an enrollment of approximately 9,000 students located in West Central Indiana, an area that enables a high quality of life with a low cost of living. Terre Haute is the regional center for health care, commerce, the arts, and education for the surrounding areas and home to four colleges/universities and several museums. For more information about the city, visit www.terrehaute.com.

The College of Arts and Sciences welcomes all faculty, staff, and students, regardless of identity or affiliation. The college values the contribution of all individuals in the execution of its primary mission, which is to educate undergraduate and graduate students. To that end, we will strive to attract representative staff and faculty.

Indiana State University is an equal opportunity employer, and we are committed to providing reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with disabilities and disabled veterans in our employment application process.