he housing and dining services contract submitted to the university is a legally binding contract and creates a financia bligation for the entire perioed contracted. A student is released from this obligation only if the student cancels nrollment with or withdraws from the university. If the student is to continue enrollment at Indiana State University nd wishes to be considered for release from the contractual obligation this Housing Contract Release Application , nd any supporting documentation, must be submitted for review by the release committee. The housing and dining ontract period is the full academic year or any remaining portion thereof. Students are advised that a contract release considered only in certain unique situations, outlined below. A desire to experience off-campus living is not a valid eason for a request to be released from this legally binding contract.
otherwise financially commit to any other housing if you have not been released by the Office of Residential Life. If you were to do this you would be under a financial obligation for two different places to live.

Change in Situation Form, Page 2

3. Statement of Change

Explain the recent extreme, unanticipated and unpredictable change in your/your family's situation. You must show how this change is so unique or of such a severe nature to your life (such as financial, medical, traumatic loss, natural disaster, etc.) that without a release from your housing contract with Residential Life you would not be able to continue your enrollment at ISU.

You may continue on additional pieces of paper, if necessary, and attach those to	o this form.

Attach copies of any documentation, receipts, statements, etc. that would support your case. While nothing specific is required, it is best to support your case with as much complete and accurate documentation as possible.
